Stephenson Meets Prominent Republicans On His Way To Washington In Milwaukee.

WILL PUBLISH HIS EXPENSE LIST

States He Means To Comply With The State Primary Law When He Is Named Senator By The Legislature This Next January.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 4.—United States Senator James Stephenson and chairman of the Republican State Central Committee E. A. Edwards, together with several lesser lights of the Stephenson wing of the republican party are in the city today.
It is naturally the belief that they are here discussing plans for the Stephenson campaign before the legislature before the senator goes to Washington.
The most important matter to look out was an intimation by Senator

Stephenson himself that he intended to comply with the election laws of the state in all particulars.
This is taken to indicate that he intends filing his expense account showing the amount spent in the primary election campaign.
He will, however, do this after there has been an election of United States senator by the legislature.
Senator Stephenson will remain in Milwaukee over Sunday and then go directly to Washington for the opening of congress. J. A. Van Cleave of Marquette is with him.

NAME HEMINGWAY AS POSSIBLE CANDIDATE FOR WOMEN, IS THE PRESIDENT'S VIEW

Janesville Man Spoken Of As Possibility for State Superintendent of Schools.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 4.—A sharp contest is developing in Wisconsin for election to the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction. C. F. Cary, the present incumbent, has been held in office continuously for the last five years; is a candidate for reelection. This office formerly was elective at the annual election, with the other state officers, political offices, so-called, but was changed by the legislature so as to be out of politics. The salary was increased from $3,000 to $5,000 a year and term increased from two to four years. The election of the office was changed from the fall to the spring, when the judicial elections are held.
C. W. Wood, state inspector of rural schools, a subordinate and appointee of Supr. Cary, has tendered his resignation in order to devote himself to his candidacy for the office against his chief, Mr. Wood has not many hundreds of the rural school teachers and school officials of the state and it is said has already perfected a formidable organization for his campaign. His resignation will not take effect until the state civil service commission has established a list of eligibles from which the appointment of a successor to the outgoing inspector can be made. The civil service commission has not December 10 as the date for the competitive examination for this position, the salary of which is $1,800 a year and expenses, and the list will hardly be established before the middle of January.

Among other candidates, announced and receptive, are L. D. Harvey, former state superintendent and now head of the city schools of Menomonie, and the Stout Manual Training schools there; also Frank E. Doty, former state high school inspector and now secretary and chief examiner of the state civil service commission; W. H. Howitt, institute conductor of the Oakwood normal school; Charles Hemingway of Janesville, and others.

HOME BEST PLACE FOR WOMEN, IS THE PRESIDENT'S VIEW

Roosevelt Does Not Think Suffrage Would Improve Her Condition As Much As a Family Would.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Dec. 4.—President Roosevelt's attitude on the subject of woman suffrage was disclosed today by Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, in the course of an address delivered before the National League for Civic Education of Women. Mr. Abbott read a letter from the President, which he said "was not written for publication, nor for the occasion."
"Personally, I believe in women's suffrage," says Roosevelt, "but I am not an enthusiastic advocate of it because I do not regard it as a very important matter. I do not think giving women suffrage will produce any marked improvement in the condition of women. I am more and more convinced that the great and indispensable field for usefulness of woman is as the mother of a family."

SHERIFF DID NOT BOND BOAT; IS SUED

Failure on Part of Sheriff of Manitowish County to Get Bonds From Boat Causes Man to Lose a Judgment of $2500.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Manitowish, Wis., Dec. 4.—A declaration has been handed down by the supreme court refusing to reopen the case of Wendell Phillips, Green Bay, vs. the Portage Transit Co., of Buffalo, and as a result the case of Phillips vs. ex-Sheriff Fred Eggert and his bondmen, this city, will probably be forced to trial. Phillips secured a $2500 judgment against the Portage company for injuries received when he was struck by a piece of ice which fell from the boat while docked at Green Bay. Papers were sent here by Phillips' attorneys to libel the Portage company and it is alleged that Eggert, who shortly permitted the boat to depart without giving a bond and thus prevented the chance for Phillips to collect the judgment in the original case. Because of his failure to hold the boat or get a bond Eggert and his bondmen are made defendants in an action in which Phillips seeks to collect the original judgment. The case will be heard in January.

WHAT STATE MAKES FROM HUNTERS

Secured Over Ten Thousand Dollars from Hunting Licenses
This Year.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 4.—People from other states who come to Wisconsin to hunt deer and other game paid into the state treasury this year the sum of $10,055. Most of these were residents of Illinois, who came from Chicago and Milwaukee. Wisconsin charges a non-resident hunter $10 for a license to hunt deer, prairie chickens and other small game, and if the hunter wants a license to go after deer, he must put up a fee of $25. This season 363 non-residents secured $10 licenses and 257 took out deer licenses. The latter permit allows the possessor thereof to take out of the state with him the carcass of one deer. Up to two years ago he could take home two deer, but the legislature thought this was giving him more than his money's worth and reduced the allowance to one.

GOVERNMENT IS TO HAVE A LABORATORY

Will Establish Big Forestry Laboratory at State University Soon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 4.—All the federal forestry laboratories are to be concentrated into one institution at the University of Wisconsin, pursuant to a proposition made by the university regents by the United States Forestry Commission.
The Wisconsin university will erect a building to cost $25,000, on the university campus, and the federal department will furnish machinery there in to cost some $14,000. The institution thus established will have an annual payroll of some $25,000.
The federal government maintains several forestry laboratories, the leading ones being at Washington, and at Purdue, Indiana, but it is proposed to concentrate them, for the purpose of doing more effective work, at the University of Wisconsin, this institution having been selected because of the recognized strong college of engineering it maintains and the large research work that is constantly in progress.

State Forester E. M. Griffiths transmitted the proposition to the dean of the college of engineering, F. E. Turner, and the matter of the appropriation of $25,000 for the necessary building is a detail that will be attended to at the next meeting of the regents.

The federal commission has also called upon C. F. Cary, state superintendent of public instruction, to make the educational needs of the rural dwellers of the state the basis for a strong publicity campaign.

BOOTH RELICS PUT UP FOR AUCTION

Many Articles Used by Late Edwin Booth as an Actor Up for Sale.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Dec. 4.—Many prominent members of the theatrical profession and a large number of other admirers of the late Edwin Booth flocked today to bid on a large collection of personal property that belonged to the great tragedian. The property was put on sale by Mr. Booth's daughter, Mrs. Ignatius J. Grossmann, who wished to dispose of it because she expects to make her home abroad.
Included in the things placed on sale were many of the costumes, weapons, wigs and hats worn by Edwin Booth. "Hamlet's" robe of black trimmed with rare purple lace and jet, and the "Richard III" suit which Booth used when he succeeded his father in the portrayal of that character were among the lot. Other costumes placed on sale were those worn by Mr. Booth when he played "Macbeth" with Salvini in great audience to the Academy of Music, when with Lawrence Barrett and Modjesko he toured the country for five years and when he played with Sir Henry Irving in England.
One of the most interesting relics placed on sale was a leaden seal originally enclosed in the corner-stone of Booth's Theatre at Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue in this city. There were also the wigs and beards used in "King Lear," "Richard III," "Hamlet," "Othello" and other plays. One of the things which Booth prized the most, a painting of his father from life done nearly sixty years ago, was added to the sale.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS BEGIN A CAMPAIGN

League for the Civic Education of Women Commences Course of Lectures.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Dec. 4.—The suffragists and anti-suffragists both selected today as the date for beginning their winter's campaign. This afternoon the league for the Civic Education of Women, of which Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder is president began its first course of lectures for the season at the Berkeley Lyceum. The league is the anti-suffrage organization, the representative of which appeared before the general assembly at Albany last winter and spoke in opposition to the measure for women's suffrage. The league has the support of many eminent men and women. Richard Watson Gilder presided at the meeting this afternoon and the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott and President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia were among the speakers.

The suffragists are to have their meetings in Carnegie hall tonight, when a new movement for the advancement of suffrage is to be formally launched with the aid and support of hundreds of prominent women and many well known professional and business men. It is proposed to work on broad and dignified lines, to give the movement an impetus that is expected to come from the sympathy and co-operation of the more influential members of society. Street campaigning is to be dropped, or at least for the time curtailed, and the propaganda is to be carried on more actively among those who will treat it with great thought and seriousness.

The Carnegie hall meeting promises to resemble the first night at the opera more than a meeting of women for the vote. Many leaders of the Four Hundred are expected to be present, among the number Mrs. Clarence Mackay, Mrs. Philip Lytle, Mrs. Robert Gould, Mrs. George Gould, and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr.

HELD MEETING ON INSURANCE TAXES

State Commissioners and Big Men in Companies Gather for a Conference.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Dec. 4.—Executive officials of all the large life insurance companies of the United States and Canada, together with the insurance commissioners of a number of states, have gathered in this city for a meeting that promises to have important results. The conference was called by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents and the purpose is to be an organized campaign to secure a reduction of life insurance taxes.
There has long been complaint of the system of state taxation on life insurance, which varies greatly in the different states, and is in many purely revenue measure, yielding returns said to be many times greater than is necessary for the maintenance of the insurance department. The majority of the insurance commissioners as well as the insurance companies have declared themselves in favor of a readjustment of the present system of taxation, which they admit is in many cases inequitable and excessive.

TRIAL OF CHARLES JORDAN WILL BE COMMENCED SOON

Confession Of Accused Leaves Him Only The Defense To Insanity To Plead.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Boston, Mass., Dec. 4.—What promises to be one of the greatest legal battles in the criminal annals of Massachusetts will begin within the next week or two, when Charles S. Jordan of Somerville is placed on trial for the murder of his wife. The killing of Mrs. Jordan and the cutting up of her body by the self-confessed murderer occurred in the early part of last September and was one of the most gruesome cases with which the police ever had to deal. The confession of the young husband has left him but one ground for defense, insanity. Embert counsel of New York and Boston have been engaged to conduct the defense and it is understood that the millions of J. J. Livermore, the so-called "cotton king" of New York, who is a brother-in-law of Jordan, will be freely to give the young man from the electric chair.
Since his arrest a day or two after the murder of his wife Jordan has been confined in the East Cambridge Jail, where he has been visited almost daily by his wealthy sisters. Though the close confinement has told somewhat on his health, Jordan has continued to maintain the same comparative calm that he displayed at the time of his arrest, when he contentedly puffed a cigarette while seated on a trunk containing his wife's dismembered body.
Jordan is about thirty years old, of splendid physique and handsome appearance. His wife, who fell a victim to his rage, was an actress, aged twenty-three years. Jordan was born and raised in Indianapolis and came to Somerville with his parents about ten or twelve years ago. The couple were married in 1901. Mrs. Jordan had been previously married, and had lived with her first husband in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan went on the yandeville stage, Jordan taking the part of a tramp and his wife that of a nurse, in a sketch. They went first to Rutte, Mont., after their marriage, but remained there only a short time, as the climate did not agree with them. Later they went to Chicago and appeared in some of the smaller theaters there, remaining three months. About three years ago they returned to Somerville and went to live in the little house where the tragedy of last September occurred.
Through the generosity of Jordan's wealthy relatives the couple were always well supplied with money. But Mrs. Jordan, according to the husband, had taken to drink.

ing and, he says, was associating with other men and he became jealous. And it was in a jealous quarrel that the couple started which ended in the death of the woman.
Jordan declares his wife struck him first, that he then knocked her down and was terrified to find that he had killed her. He left the body undisturbed all night, while he slept in an adjoining room. The following morning he conceived the idea of cutting the body up, taking it away on one of the steamers and throwing the parts overboard and then reporting to the police that his wife had left him. With a butcher knife and a hacksaw he served the head from the body, and after putting the scalp and hair in the kitchen range placed the skull in the furnace in the cellar. The legs and arms were cut from the body and the flesh sliced off in strips, leaving the bones of the limbs practically bare. The bones were placed in the furnace and the chunks of flesh piled into a trunk with the torso.
With the trunk and its gaily contents Jordan came into Boston, stopping at a boarding house preliminary to taking a steamer for New York. The discovery of the crime was by mere chance. The cabman who drove Jordan to the boarding house became suspicious about the contents of the trunk while carrying it into the house. Its weight made him think it contained stolen silverware, and the nervous manner of Jordan satisfied him the man was a burglar.
The cab driver, believing he was on the trail of a thief, went to the police and told them of the mysterious trunk. Officers were detailed to go to the boarding house and investigate. When Jordan was ordered to open the trunk he did not appear in the least to be nervous or alarmed, but hesitated to comply with the officer's request. His calm and natural manner and his statements that he was a traveling salesman and that the trunk contained samples almost threw the police off their guard. Believing it better to investigate, however, the officers finally opened the trunk and came upon its bloody contents.

Jordan submitted without protest to arrest and upon his arrival at the station charged gave the police the full details of his crime. An examination was made at once of the house in Somerville and there the police found the head and bones of the murdered woman and numerous other evidences of the crime.

TRIED TO WRECK A ST. PAUL TRAIN

TIES WERE PILED ON TRACKS
SOUTH OF MILTON JUNCTION.

SMASH-UP WAS AVERTED

Engine Plowed Through Obstruction
Smashing Pilot, but No Other Damage Was Done.

An attempt was made to wreck train No. 143 loaded with passengers on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road last night just south of Milton Junction shortly after nine.

A dozen large railway ties were piled on the track and were struck by the pilot of the engine and scattered right and left, averting what otherwise might have been a shocking tragedy.

As it was the pilot of the engine was smashed and several of the passengers in the forward coaches felt the shock of the collision, but no one was injured and the train continued on its journey to Madison.

Train No. 143 is the Chicago passenger train arriving here at 8:55, leaving Chicago at 6:03 and ending its run at Madison. It was in charge of Conductor Cordes and Engineer Cleveland was at the throttle.

The train was running at a good rate of speed when it struck the obstacle—a dozen ties—laid loosely on the track. Had they been spiked on or chained together in true train-wrecker style a serious accident must have happened.

The scene of the attempt was several miles beyond Anderson's Crossing, where an attempt to cut the signal tower switch wires in February and March of 1907 was made.

It will be remembered that at this time Detective Cowan of the St. Paul detective bureau was shot while pursuing two men who were tampering with the derail switch on March 21. The attempt last year was followed by the arrest of a suspect who was tried and later released and as far as the investigation went the incident was closed.

Road detectives will investigate the happening of last evening and make a report to the railroad authorities in a few days.

Last evening in one of the fastest and best games ever played in Janesville the Y. M. C. A. basketball team defeated the Milton college team by a score of 38 to 37. The game was a light from start to finish and at one time the visitors were eight points ahead of the home team. Bennett as center starred for the Janesville aggregation, making eleven baskets. He continually out-jumped his opponent and played a strong, heady game.

Filed, who was put in in the second half as forward, also put up an excellent game. The local team were somewhat handicapped by the fact that two of the regular players, who have been practicing with the team during the fall, could not play, Rivers and Baker both being out of the game.

The local team put up a good game and were considerably helped by their height, every man on the team being over six feet. In the preliminary game the second Y. M. C. A. team defeated the high school team 18 to 9.

SOCIAL DEMOCRAT PAID OUT NO MONEY

Green Bay Man Depended upon Brains of Voters for His Election—Had Very Small Vote.

IT COST LA FOLLETTE SEVENTEEN THOUSAND

Senator's Account of His Presidential Campaign Is Made Public at Last.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Dec. 4.—Senator Robert M. La Follette's campaign for the republican nomination for president of the United States cost $17,629.10. This was disclosed by a statement filed in the office of Secretary of State Prar by Alfred T. Rogers, treasurer of the La Follette presidential committee and Wisconsin member of the republican national committee. The receipts and disbursements were equal, and it is understood that Senator La Follette personally made up a deficit of some $1,800, the remainder having been contributed by friends in amounts ranging from fifty cents to one thousand dollars. The names of the contributors were not set forth in the statement filed, but it is known that the largest contributor was United States Senator Isaac Stephenson of Marquette, whose re-election to the senate was vigorously opposed by La Follette. The contribution was made before La Follette and Stephenson fell out at Washington about the time La Follette tried to talk the Aldrich financial bill to death and Stephenson voted for that measure. The expenditures are itemized in the statement, most going to printers and publishers of campaign materials, makers of post cards and buttons. Much was spent for traveling expenses and a considerable portion for salaries of press agents and stenographers. The expenditures were generally small amounts. La Follette leaves tonight for Washington, but will return during the holiday recess to get out the first issue of his weekly political newspaper.

December 25 Marks Not Only the
But of the Wondrous Coronation

Christmas is the anniversary of an event in the world's history which, insignificant as compared with the wondrous birth of Christ himself, was all-important in the cycle of the older centuries. To the popular mind Christmas carries memories only of the jolly mangera, where "lay the sainted babe, destined to adorn first a cross and then a throne upon the summit of the heavens. It is sweet only with the fragrance of generosity and reverence. Its pictures are the pictures of the desert's sands beneath the radiance of a star in the east, of shepherds and of wise men following the comet's beam of Bethlehem and Mary. "The births of all Christendom," in the words of Longfellow, "now roll along the unbroken song of peace on earth, good will to men."

It is the anniversary only of the birth of the Saviour. Yet the page of history bears the record of another Christmas day which also affected all mankind. For on December 25, A. D. 800, there thundered through the holy church of Rome the antique formula of proclamation which proclaimed the mighty Charlemagne an emperor. Christmas day is the anniversary of the revival of the Roman title for the Frankish king. It is the anniversary of the dramatic act of Pope Leo III, which historians have said was magnificent in its splendor.

One thousand one hundred and five years ago the coming Christmas day occurred the wondrous spectacle. Charlemagne is known wherever history is read. He came of the stock of Charles Martel—Charles the Hammer. To the end of his reign he was engaged in incessant wars. Insurrections were always apt to break out in the frontier parts of his dominions. He was king of the Franks from 768 to 814 and emperor of Rome from 800 to 814. While he made the power of the central government to be felt to the utmost extremities of the earth, he recognized in his subjects civil rights and a limitation of monarchical powers by their assemblies. His views were liberal and enlightened to a degree rare for many subsequent ages. He zealously endeavored to promote education, agriculture, arts, manufactures and commerce. He projected great national works, one of which was a canal to connect the Rhine and the Danube. His own dominions were an example of superior cultivation. In fact, the stories of the ancient legends suggest that while he gloried in the iron hand with which he sent his armies successfully against the Saxons and the Lombards, the Bulgarians and Hungs, yet he blessed his world empire with the most advanced thoughts for triumphs of peace which his age had ever seen.

Christmas day commemorates the time of his supremest moment—the day when he became a fellow of the Caesars. While the title of emperor of Rome added nothing directly and tangibly to his power, yet it greatly confirmed and increased the respect entertained for him, such was still the lustre of a title with which were associated recollections of all the greatness of the imperial empire.

In the autumn of the year 800 Charlemagne undertook an Italian campaign, the immediate purpose of which was to support Pope Leo III, against a Roman rebellion. Historians differ as to the possibility of an ulterior purpose. There was peace throughout the kingdom over which mighty Charles held sway. The only disturbing element was the fact of charges against Leo, Leo's foundation stones were crumbling. The one thing needful at the moment was the restoration of confidence in the papacy. "The one means of maintaining that confidence for the future," writes one student, "was to restore the empire at Rome, and although Charles may have seen no reason for an immediate assumption of the imperial title, although he foreboded difficulties with the Greeks, and although he had scruples as to the legitimacy of the course proposed, he was prepared sooner or later to take the decisive step." "Thus is the thought advanced that Charlemagne was only acting out a mighty drama when he entered St. Peter's in Rome upon the all-important Christmas day.

At any rate, Charlemagne repaired to Rome. He held a court of inquiry in the matters pending against the pope and the holy man was fully exonerated. The conspirators against his fame were unable to produce the seventy-two witnesses demanded by the calumnies. On December 23, Leo went through the ceremony of excommunication in the basilica of St. Peter's. If the purpose of Charlemagne's visit was to alone support the pope, his purpose was accomplished and he was ready to travel back again along the old military road leading from Nonentum. But Charles did not return.

On December 25, two days later, a multitude of Franks and Germans thronged St. Peter's to celebrate their Christmas mass. The pope occupied the pulpit. King Charles, flanked by his two sons, knelt in a conspicuous group before the altars of the Apostles. The scene was strange and impressive. If the stories which have come down from the ages bear any measure of credence.

It is said that purple curtains draped the interspaces of the columns in the central hall and formed a sonorous frame to the sea of upturned faces. A pale winter light, struggling through the rudely glazed windows of the choir, left the body of the church in semi-darkness. The eastern apse formed the solitary spot of brightness in the prevailing gloom. The entrance lay through a great triumphal arch from which depended 3,000 lighted candles. Beneath the arch was the shrine of the Apostles, studded with jewels and completely encased in plates of gold and silver. Behind the shrine and around the

Anniversary of the Birth of Christ of Charlemagne as Well.

apex were mosaics of rainbow hues commemorating Constantine, the builder of the church, the first of Christian emperors, and the benefactor of the papacy.

And this splendor fitted to and from the figures of Leo and his attendant priests, arrayed in their sumptuous Byzantine vestments. The mystery of the eternal sacrifice unfolded itself to the gaze with all the stately circumstance of thinking bells and smoking incense, sonorous chantings and muffled prayers, crosings and genu-flexions, advancements and retreatings and kisses of peace.

"We may well imagine," writes Hilaire Belloc, "that on this Christmas morning the congregation had no eyes for this familiar ceremony. Their gaze would rather fix itself upon the figure of the king as he knelt with his sons before the shrine, a little way apart from the crowd. They had been warned that something unusual was to happen—that Charles would not leave the church as he had entered it."

As the king rose from his knees at the end of mass, the pope suddenly produced a crown of gold and precious gems. He set the diadem upon the head of Charles. The signal had been given. The throngs knew. The Franks and the Romans raised their voices in a united swelling chorus. The church thundered with the formula of proclamation.

"To Charles the Augustus, crowned of God, the great and pacific emperor, long life and victory!"

Hours had another emperor. Christmas day had given her a successor to the Caesars.

Led by the pope, the congregation broke into the Hymn called "Laudes," in which the saints were invoked on behalf of the new emperor, his children and his subjects. The emperor's eldest son was forthwith crowned as the father's successor in the Frankish kingdom.

Thus was the most momentous Christmas day in the medieval age.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Fair tonight and Saturday, cold wave tonight.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

Much interest is expressed in all parts of the country in the general movement now going on to stamp out consumption, and the Red Cross association devised a plan whereby every citizen can aid in the work. This plan is to furnish stamps at a price for sending up holiday packages, and these stamps are distributed through state societies. The stamp costs a penny, is about the size of a postage stamp, unique in design, and a small but large contributor to a worthy cause. Many Wisconsin cities have taken up the work, and Janesville should get in line. A bulletin from the Wisconsin association says:

"The honor list of '100,000 cities' in the Red Cross Christmas stamp campaign is growing. Madison is the latest city to pledge itself to sell 100,000 stamps. La Crosse was the first. It is now up to the other large cities of Wisconsin to get on the band wagon to save their honor."

"A few cities cannot be expected to accomplish the entire work of selling the 2,000,000 holiday stamps," said Dr. Hoyt E. Dearholt, one of the original anti-tuberculosis boosters in Wisconsin, today. "Thus far three or four cities have been sharing the entire burden. This is an all-state fight. No one city is to derive any greater benefit than another. Milwaukee is holding her own as the metropolis, but there still seems to be a feeling of apathy in many of the cities of the state that must be expected to help."

"Dr. Charles A. Harper, secretary of the Wisconsin state board of health, is personally selling stamps, as well as many other prominent citizens of Wisconsin. Madison is going to have 'Tuberculosis Sunday.' A mass-meeting was held in the capital and the ministers pledged themselves to do their utmost, both as a body and as individuals."

"Everybody 'buy a stamp' and push the noble work of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. Address applications to 111 Goldsmith building and there will be no delay in getting stamps to sell."

EXTRAVAGANCE IN DELAY

In addressing the Deep Waterways convention at Chicago Mon, William Howard Taft, commending the platform of the National Rivers and Harbors congress—"A Policy; not a Project"—as the platform embodying the greatest possibility of results in the great work of waterway improvement, demonstrated the wisdom of the old-time program of "A Project; not a Policy" and demonstrated also the wisdom of delay when he said:

"A plan should not be adopted until fully confirmed by expert opinion and careful investigation. But when adopted, when its utility is made certain, then it is neither economy to the government in the matter of expenditure, nor is it a benefit to the people to delay the furnishing, as rapidly as it can be economically expended, of the full amount of money needed to make the improvement a useful and a completed thing."

In asking the government to adopt a definite and a fixed policy of waterway improvement, with the reports of the authorities based on expert knowledge and opinion and on careful investigation, with annual appropriations of not less than $50,000,000, the National Rivers and Harbors congress has done more than any other agency in uniting all trade, commercial and agricultural interests in advocating "A Policy; Not a Project," and in impressing on the congress of the United States the absolute necessity for waterway improvement in the general interests of all classes of trade and commerce. The wise program of the congress will be further and largely advanced at its fifth meeting, to be held at Washington on December 9, 10 and 11, and there should be thoroughly representative delegations from every state and from every city, with trade and commercial and agricultural associations also represented. Every arrangement for the entertainment of the delegates has been made and the importance of the meeting is a self-evident proposition.

CANNON FOR SPEAKER

After electing Taft to the presidency, under protest, Collier's Weekly has started out to defeat Cannon for the speakership by writing to members of the house. The effort promises to be a failure, as thus far the only opposition comes from John M. Nelson, representative from the 2d district of Wisconsin, and there is a reason for Mr. Nelson's attitude. The following is one of many letters of endorsement:

"Editor Collier's:
"I belong to those members of congress who love Mr. Cannon for the enemies he has made; namely, the short-haired women and long-haired men and others who have attacked him most unjustly, as I believe."

"Very truly,
"RICHARD BAHTHOLOMT,
"10th District of Missouri, Chairman Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds."

The Colliers had better confine their efforts to pure food and patent medicines. The people have never taken very kindly to an umpire.

James J. Trotterman, the defeated candidate for lieutenant governor on the republican ticket, spent over $3,000 to secure the nomination, and now complains about the fallacies of the primary law. If there is any merit in this monstrosity, it has yet to be discovered. It is a rat-hole for money, a disrupter of parties and results in minority rule whenever more than two candidates are competing for office.

The man who can make two blades of grass grow, where one grew before, is called a benefactor, but what the country needs just now is a persuasive argument to the common barnyard hen which will induce her to come down off the perch and attend to business at least an hour a day. With eggs at 45 cents per dozen, and no substitute, it is up to the hen to get busy.

Publicity is now the order of the day, and railroads, as well as other large corporations, support an information bureau for the benefit of the public. The press of the country is flooded with this kind of literature, and the most of it is filed away in the waste basket.

Lawrence university is a thing of the past and the school will hereafter be known as Lawrence college. This change in name, it is claimed, will cost the institution 100 scholars, in the academic course, but the advantages are supposed to more than offset the loss.

The Eagles are to be commended for appropriating $100 to the hospital last evening.

Watch Out!
You better watch out how you give me de war,
You'll lan, in de place whar de los people stay, Satan'll say:
"Fry me a sinner for breakfast,"

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A TEST OF MEMORY.

Nodzu is dead.
Do you remember him?
Doubtless not. You ask, Who was Nodzu? The name lacks even a familiar sound. Certainly if he was anybody worth remembering it would be unnecessary to look him up in "Who's Who."

However—
Go back three years or so. Look up the newspaper files of that time. You will read that Nodzu "forced the passage of the Yalu, fought the fierce battle of Hsinshun, beating the Russians back."

Do you remember now?
In the days of the Russo-Japanese war Nodzu was a hero. The newspapers told about his "fur dung battle line," and about his boyhood and his home life, and his sisters and his cousin and his aunt.

Then, like a dizzy comet, Nodzu dropped out of sight and memory.

Well, for that matter—
Can you name offhand the man who outgeneraled and outfought the Russians in those great battles on the Manchurian plains or the Japanese sea encephaly who swept the ocean clean of the Russian fleet?

Honest, now, can you?
Whether you can or not is of little moment. If you remember the names right off, you are an exception. Most of us have forgotten.

And it is significant that we have forgotten, because the world, like you and me, easily forgets the more war hero.

For centuries the world gave its favorable memory to the successful soldiers. Garments were rolled in blood to make these heroes—Nero, Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, Grant? Yes, but butchers all.

We are coming to esteem the patriotism of peace as higher than the patriotism of war. We are putting down the killers of men and putting up the saviors of men.

Nodzu made his noise and subsided. He strutted a brief figure in the limelight, and the curtain of forgetfulness came down. He did nothing in time of peace to help men or educate or uplift them. He was logically forgotten.

Who would live in the annals of our day must be more than an executioner.

$666.80 PAID OUT IN CROW BOUNTIES

Rock County Paid Out That Amount for Year Ending on Oct. 30, 1908.

In the year ending on October 30, 1908, Rock county paid out $666.80 in bounties for crows and hen-hawks. Under the statute fifteen cents is allowed for each crow killed and twenty-five cents for each hen-hawk. By a law passed by the last session of the legislature the treasurers of the various towns pay these bounties instead of the county clerk as formerly. The amounts paid out by the different town treasurers are as follows: Fulton, $12.55; Avon, $101.50; Harmony, $25.50; Union, $181.50; Plymouth, $102.45; Johnson, $13.15; Spring Valley, $132.80; La Prairie, $3.75; Center, $88.00.

9-10 Of The Pain In Dentistry Is Unnecessary

There is always the great fear of pain that keeps people from having their teeth attended to—and still the longer they put it off, the more pain and expense they will be caused.

Around the teeth on all sides, there are nerves, and these I treat with a harmless application which deadens the pain for a period of 15 minutes.

I have used this method for about 15 years, and know that 9-10 of the pain is not felt.

If you have been "going" to have your teeth fixed, call the very next time you go by, and let me tell you more about my methods.

MRS. DONNERSTAG VISITS HER SON

Who is Confined in the County Jail on Charge of Counterfeiting—Called Here by Illness of Albert.

Sheriff J. U. Fisher last evening was called up over the telephone by the chief of police at Rhineclander, who wanted to know full particulars regarding Albert Donnerstag's reported illness. The sheriff informed him that Albert was much better and was getting along very nicely. This noon Mrs. Hannah Donnerstag, the prisoner's mother, arrived in the city and at once went to the county jail. Albert heard her voice and recognized it even before she was allowed to go upstairs to his cell, and his joy knew no bounds. He had not seen her since August 14. Mrs. Donnerstag will remain here until Monday. She says that the son Rudolph who had his right leg shattered while trying to escape from the officers, is still in the hospital at Rhineclander and is getting along as well as could be expected. His life is no longer believed to be in danger.

MILWAUKEE STREET BRIDGE IS UNSAFE

According to Street Commissioner James Bennett—Timbers Supporting the Decking Have Rot.

The boards on which the Milwaukee street bridge edgewise deckings is laid are all rotted away and it is unsafe for the bridge force which holds the blocks in place and the fact that the joints are very close together some serious accident would have occurred there long ago," said Street Commissioner James Bennett today. "I know this because I have had to repair two holes where horses' hoofs have gone through. In my opinion, the city should safeguard itself against possible damage suits by having the structure repaired at the earliest opportunity. The fourth avenue bridge is open for traffic again. Out on Carlington street, which used to be Vista avenue, there is a long wooden bridge over a ravine which was condemned and closed to travel several months ago. Nothing has since been done about it and teams have to go a block out of their way to get by. There are about 150,000 feet of lumber in the bridge. It isn't in very good condition but something could be gotten for it and a bad eyesore removed if the city would order it dismantled and sell the timber to the best bidder."

MUNICIPAL GRAVEL PIT IS PROFITABLE

Municipal Ownership in Manitowish in Operating Gravel Pit Has Proved Most Successful.

Manitowish, Wis., Dec. 4.—Municipal ownership has been demonstrated a success by the city in operation of a gravel pit. The pit was purchased in 1905 for $2,200 and about $800 was expended in improvement and operation and revenues have exceeded the expenses by $41.17 in the three years according to a report of the street commissioner, but the report advises that this practice be abandoned and that the city retain the gravel for its own use.

Miss Gray and Mr. Gardner have been sweethearts for the past two years and were last seen together at New Auburn last Saturday and since then have not been seen or heard from by their relatives and friends. As far as known they have not arrived in this city.

URGES BIG CHANGES FOR HOUSE OF LORDS

Radical Recommendations for Reform of Parliament's Upper Branch Made by Committee.

London, Dec. 4.—The report of the select committee of the house of lords, appointed to suggest a plan for the reform of the upper house, was issued Thursday. The committee finds it undesirable that the possession of a peerage should of itself give the right to sit and vote in the house of lords, and it recommends that qualifications should be the main test for admission to the reformed house.

It then sets forth that all hereditary peers should be formed into an electoral body for the purpose of electing 200 of their number to sit and vote as the "lords of parliament," not for life, but for a single parliament; that the spiritual lords of parliament be reduced to ten to be elected by the bishops, two archbishops sitting during the tenure of their sees, and the other eight for the duration of one parliament; that Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have official representatives in the house of lords; that a number of hereditary peers, estimated at 130, possessing certain qualifications, should sit without the necessity of election; these to include men who have held the post of cabinet minister, viceroy, governor-general of Canada, and governor of the larger colonies, and naval and military officers of high rank, and that 20 years' service in the house of commons shall entitle one to a seat among the peers.

This plan will give the reformed house of lords about 350 members, namely, three peers of the royal blood; 200 peers to be elected; about 130 qualified hereditary peers; 10 spiritual lords and 5 judges.

The report adds that the committee feels that the party in power in the house of commons should be able to count on a substantial following in the house of lords, but as opinions as to the best means of arranging this object are so diverse it is unable to make any recommendations.

Her Objection. Many Americans of a certain class would endorse the view of an applicant who appeared in a London court recently, according to the Pall Mall Gazette, and complained that a man had given her a black eye. In middle class circles the mere fact would suffice as an obvious grievance, but this woman felt that something more was necessary to constitute a genuine case of magisterial notice. "I am a lone woman," she explained. "If I had a husband to give it to me I wouldn't mind—I'd put up with it; but I don't like other men to give it to me." And so she asked for, and got, her summons.

The Mother's Criticism. Possibly not every one has heard the anecdote about a dear old mother whose son had been promoted to be a commissioned officer, says Army and Navy Life. He sent her a box of navel oranges from the south, and this brief note: "Dear Mother: Just a handful of navel oranges, something you will find especially choice. Devotedly, Jack." The mother said to visitors: "Just the very best boy in all the world. But he never could learn to spell. Just think of a lieutenant spelling 'navel' with an 'e' instead of an 'a.' And a small 'n'! Isn't it embarrassing to a mother? Still it sounds the same when you speak it."

Few Doubles of Thin People. "Thin people" very seldom have doubles," says a photographer. "In my business I meet many pairs of people who look alike. In every case the most extraordinary resemblances are between persons who are stout. Scientifically, I cannot explain the likelihood of heavyweights possessing the same chin, eyes, nose and expression. Maybe it is because the flesh fills up all angles and hollows and destroys individuality of outline."

Carrots a Vegetable Food. An Italian physician has discovered that carrots act as an intestinal antiseptic, and will cure many forms of digestive disorders.

The Real Teacher. Happiness, not suffering, teaches us the great lessons of life.

Fear Not to Be Condemned. Often a girl or boy brave in all other respects is called a coward from one excessive fear, such as a dread of fire, or snakes, or dogs. This may be an inherited tendency or be caused by a shock in early years. In either case it is purely physical and not to be harshly judged. Caesar's fear of cats made him no less brave a soldier.

Science and Invention

COIN-IN-SLOT POOL TABLE

Ball Roll into One Receptacle and Released When Coin Is Inserted.

A great deal of waiting about and searching for balls and cue-sticks has been saved pool players by the invention of an Englishman, who has devised a pool table on which all the balls pocketed roll into the same receptacle, at one end, and are released when a coin is inserted. The cue-sticks are placed along the sides of the table from one end to the other and at the lower end meet two other cue-sticks which lead to a box-like attachment in the middle of that end. As each ball is pocketed it is forced by its own momentum into the chute and finds its way into the general receptacle. This has an opening at the front large enough to permit the players to reach in and take out the balls they have won. When the delay and annoyance is considered of making a round of the table after each turn and collecting from the various pockets, it will be seen that this new form of table has much to commend it to those who like their game to progress without trivial and unnecessary interruptions.

NO TIME LOST COLLECTING.

NEW KIND OF MALL

Two-man Implement Drives Post With Great Power.

For the purpose of driving posts into the ground, a mall invented by an Arkansas man, will be found unusually efficient. It takes two men to operate it, but it does the work of more than two, for it not only drives the posts more rapidly, but does so without the usual ground. The mall consists of a tapering block, larger at its bottom than at its top, and of heavy, hard wood. On the bottom is an iron plate, to protect it from the effects of the continual battering it receives and keep it from splitting, and around the middle is an iron band.

TAKES TWO TO WORK IT.

Four iron handles are fixed to the band by hinges and two men, each taking two handles, can raise the block and let it fall upon a post, its own weight being sufficient to provide more driving power than there is in the swing of an ordinary mallet. By practice, this implement, which as it appears, can be operated as rapidly as a sledge hammer and with far more effect.

ARTIFICIAL SUNLIGHT

Device Enables Photographers to Produce Sky-light Effects.

Clear days or cloudy days and any degree of light can now be produced at will by photographers in their own studios. This is through the ingenuity of a Massachusetts man who has invented an apparatus for producing artificial sky-light effects. In one corner of the studio, near the ceiling, is an electric light, or some other artificial light, though electricity is better, because steadier. In front of this is a glass partition, hinged in the middle, so that it can be adjusted to vary the angle at which the light strikes it.

In front of this is a series of screens, by changing the angle of the partition and adding or removing screens, almost any light effect can be produced, from the glare of bright sunlight to the shadow of a cloudy day. The illustration shows an electric light bulb, with reflector, so arranged that it can be turned on two or three feet, behind the partition and increases the possibilities of the apparatus.

SHOE-POLISHING APPARATUS

Handy Arrangement for Quickly Polishing the Shoes.

The days of the old-fashioned blacking brush, for polishing the shoes, have passed. With the assistance of a couple of strips of soft cloth and some elbow grease a very much better polish can be obtained. Unfortunately the polishing cannot be successfully accomplished by the wearer of the shoes. The work must be done by a second person, unless no convenient substitute to the one shown here is employed. A glance at the illustration will show how easily and quickly the polishing can be done. Many a dime can be saved with the aid of this apparatus, which would pay for the cost in a short time. In this apparatus there is a platform upon which to rest the foot. At each side are rollers over which the polishing cloth moves, an abutment at the ends preventing the cloth from extending beyond the ends, being clear and slightly, this polishing machine would make a welcome addition to any household.

each year.

When the Vanderbilts were looking for the best rider available to go to France for three years and guide their horses to first place on the French turf, Butler was selected. Mr. Winn acted as their representative and offered Jimmy $10,000 per year for a three-year contract. After some careful thought on the Jockey's part he decided to stay in America for the sake of his mother. This is very interesting as showing the better side of a Jockey's life.

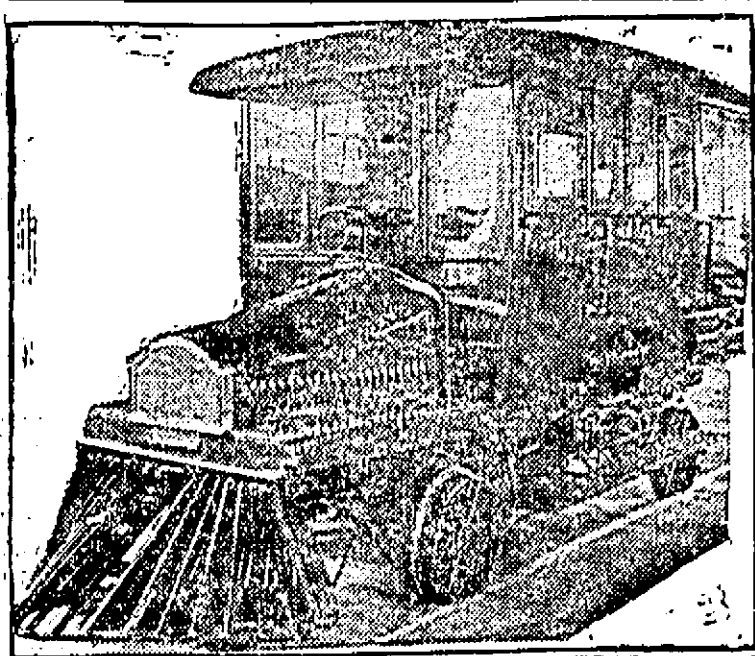

Asked if he ever made a bet, he shook his head saying: "I have only one bet bet, my mother."

"You see," continued Butler, when I first started to work for Mr. Hawkins, to whom I was apprenticed, I thought that if I ever got to be a good rider and made lots of money the first thing I would do would be to buy a home for my parents. You know, a boy can never do too much for his parents. I have found that out, and I know lots of other boys that have, too. Some of them mean better and just naturally can't get themselves out of the old rut.

"When I had success on the coast last winter I saved up my riding fees and every week would send them home. Mother saved up my money and this year I went to Lexington and we bought a farm. The place is well located near Lexington and when I get too big to ride I am going home to mother and be a farmer. I would like to breed horses and cattle, too, but I don't know that I will ever make enough money to stock a place like that."

"To have the place, of course, is something, and then, better still, to know that I have a little nest egg laid away besides. That I am happy in putting it aside, because I know that mother is."

SPECIAL CONSTRUCTED "DE LUXE" MOTOR BUILT FOR USE ON PANAMA RAILROAD.

Freeport, Ill.—The latest addition to the railway equipment of the canal zone is an especially designed gasoline motor car for the use of the canal commission on the Panama railroad.

This car has just been completed by the Motor Car company of this city, and is now on its way to the great canal. The car is not only serviceable for the Panama railroad, but may become a popular means of transportation for the officials of many of our American roads and is especially suitable for an observation car in the scenic districts. It is fitted with electric lights throughout, which are furnished with electricity from a storage battery. The car can develop a high rate of speed.

The car was especially constructed according to plans by government engineers and is fitted with a 60 horse power engine, which will give it a speed of 40 miles an hour. Its seating capacity is 14 passengers. The car is a "de luxe" throughout, and officials of the canal construction and distinguished visitors to the isthmus will have a most comfortable and luxurious ride in this car. The car is built in black and gold and is artistically trimmed and bears the initials "C. C." which stand for the canal commission.

This treatment is said to have acquired a wonderful reputation throughout the East, owing to its peculiar propensity to fortify the nerve force and generate health and a consequent personal magnetism, so essential to the happiness of every normal human being. It is claimed to be a blessing to those who are physically impaired, gloomy, despondent, nervous and who have trembling of the limbs, dizziness, heart palpitation, cold hands and feet, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing and general inability to act rationally as others do. Also of vast benefit to writers, professional men, office workers and the victims of society's late hours and overindulgence in wines, liquors, etc.

By preparing the treatment at home secretly, no one need know of another's trouble, while the ingredients are much used in filling various prescriptions, so that even the purchase of them separately need occasion no timidity.

SWISS PREDOMINATE
AMONG APPLICANTS

Whose Petitions for Second Naturalization Papers Will Be Heard on Monday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Monroe, Wis., Dec. 4.—Fifty-five residents of Green county have filed application for their second naturalization papers and each will be given a hearing by Judge George Grimm of the circuit court next week. A majority of the applicants are Swiss while several are Germans and Norwegians and one Swede. The reason attributed to the large number of applicants is the passage of the amendment to the state constitution that has taken effect their second naturalization papers by Dec. 1, 1912, when the amendment goes into effect. It is estimated that there are over one thousand residents of the county who have not taken out their second papers and it is presumed they will secure their credentials within the next four years.

Four candidates for nomination to county office in Green county had failed to file their statements of expense in the primary campaign up to last night, yesterday being the thirtieth day after election. All county candidates for election except four had failed to file their statements of expense in the general election campaign to last night. The delinquent candidates, both in the primary and general election campaigns are subject to a fine from $25 to $1,000 under the statute which provides that expensive accounts in campaigns must be filed within thirty days after election. Attorney-General Gilbert gave an opinion shortly after the primaries that candidates in the primary need not file their accounts until thirty days after the general election which granted candidates nearly two months of grace. But four have been delinquent in this county. The law provides that the county clerk shall notify the delinquent applicant when the delinquency has been determined. District Attorney W. H. Mearns and County Clerk I. M. Stauffer decline to state what their intentions are in the matter of prosecuting the tardy ones.

Frank Millman of this city has acquired a $3,000 stock of goods in Waterloo, Wis. on a hand trade with acres of land in Albia county, Minn., worth $25 an acre, for the stock. He has employed three men to run the store for him in Waterloo.

Judge George Grimm, of Jefferson, adjudged circuit court for Green Co.
Wednesday night, until Monday afternoon. The only matters to come up in this term are granting citizenship papers. Judge Grimm has returned home, as well as P. C. Grant, of Janesville, court reporter.

FATHER AND SON.

Both Gained Health on Right Food.

A food that will build up the health of a man and that can be digested by a baby, certainly has value worth considering.

This following report from an Ohio wife and mother is to the point and interesting.

"My husband had suffered great agony from stomach trouble, at times for five years. Finally, after six months in the hospital, he was operated on for appendicitis.

"From that time he grew weaker and thinner until, when we brought him home he was reduced from 145 to 108 lbs.

"Then he began to eat for breakfast,

Grano-Nuts with cream and a soft boiled egg. For dinner a dish of Grano-Nuts and cream, roasted bread and a glass of warm milk. For supper same as breakfast with a baked potato, one or two poached eggs, and a glass of warm milk.

"After two months in this diet he had nearly regained his normal weight.

He took outdoor exercise, and got plenty of sleep. He has no more trouble with his stomach, and can eat anything.

"These results induced us to try Grano-Nuts on our 6 months baby, who from birth had been puny. Nothing succeeded to agree with him, although we tried the whole lot of infant foods.

"When I began to feed him Grano-

Nuts with warm milk poured on to make it soft, he weighed only 13 lbs.

After six weeks of his new diet he has gained 7 lbs., and is healthy and happy."

"There's a Reason."

DEATH PACT TOLD

Mrs. Abbie Rice Testifies in Davis Trial at Omaha.

RELATES DRAMATIC STORY

Witness Tells How Dr. Rustin Insisted That She Kill Him and Herself—Evidence Implicating the Defendant Is Admitted.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 4.—Mrs. Abbie Rice, the friend of Dr. Rustin, took the stand Thursday in the trial of Charles E. Davis for the alleged murder of the physician. Counsel for the defense made vain efforts to exclude Davis from her testimony implicating Davis.

Mrs. Rice occupied the stand most of the day. Her recital of the story of her relations with the dead surgeon was not less dramatic than on the two former occasions when she has been asked to give the details of an alleged pact to destroy three lives.

Entire Story Is Admitted.

Twice during the day witness and jury were dismissed while counsel argued points of law as to the admissibility of different portions of the evidence, and in each instance the state scored a clean-cut victory. By a ruling made in the last point raised, the bars are let down for the hearing of Mrs. Rice's entire story, which will include that part wherein Dr. Rustin is alleged to have told her he had secured Davis to kill him.

Once during her narrative, when she referred to Rustin's mother, Mrs. Rice broke into tears, but soon regained her composure. Her evidence was given in a clear voice and with a good memory for detail. Mrs. Rice had reached the point where Davis was brought into her story, when she was excused from the stand.

The defendant sat near his attorney listening attentively to the proceedings and on his right were his two brothers, one of whom, Frederick H. Davis, is vice-president of the First National bank, and the other, Latham Davis, a prominent capitalist. The latter took notes and made suggestions to counsel for the defense.

Rustin's Plans for His Death.

Mrs. Rice told how the doctor, having become despondent, first proposed that she kill him, Mrs. Rustin could collect his insurance. He bought a pistol, she said, but she purposely broke it, and he exchanged it for another and planned that she should shoot him in the abdomen, in his barn, and then commit suicide. When the time came she wavered and he was very angry.

They then went to a rooming house together and for two days he discussed plans for the taking of his life. Then Tuesday evening he went to his office, and she followed him and found a man in the private office. At this point the state made its successful fight for the admission of Rustin's statement as to what Dr. Rustin told her he had arranged with Davis, who it is alleged was the man in the private office. This part of her story she began to tell Friday.

FOUND TREASURE IN CELLAR.

Shoemakers May Have Discovered Hoard Hidden by Monks.

A curious story is going the rounds at Limoges, France, and has come to light through an anonymous letter announcing certain alleged facts to the police authorities. It is asserted that in 1901 two shoemakers named Vallette and Triard, while effecting some repairs to the collar of the house they occupied, discovered a treasure consisting of a sum of money and numerous valuable books.

The particular part of Limoges where the residence of the shoemakers was situated stands on the site of an ancient monastery, and it is thought that the treasure found may have been hidden by the monks. Just what truth there is in the reported discovery is not yet known, but it is asserted that the two shoemakers, who were previously known to be in straitened circumstances, have of recent years lived on a quite different footing and have been able to purchase numerous house properties in the district.

Their landlord is now taking proceedings with a view of testing the accuracy of the local gossip and of claiming the treasure or at least a part of it.

ENGLISH IDEA OF THE WEST.

Girl Really Knew as Much About It as Manly of Her Countrymen.

An Indiana novelist thinks that one of the greatest tests ever put upon his abilities was endured at a London dinner table.

The American had been seated next a rosy-cheeked, gray-eyed English girl, who affected an absorbing and flattering interest in the United States, about which she seemed to have imbibed the usual extraordinary ideas of some Britons, especially with regard to the perils to be encountered in the more sparsely settled regions of the west. She tried her best not to be incredulous when assured that things were not really so bad as she imagined.

"It is reassuring to be told that there are not rattlesnakes in all the gardens," she said with a dazzling smile, "but my cousin wrote me not long since that he had seen over 20 wigwags in one little village. Perhaps," she added, as her companion made no immediate response, "perhaps the wigwags are not as venomous as rattlesnakes."—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Books for the Blind.

Divided according to age, the number of blind increases with advancing years. For the old blind, perhaps a third of all, nothing radical can be done. They must be cared for under the provisions for the maintenance of the aged. But they can be made happier by being taught simple occupations. Young persons, eager to do good, can visit them, read to them, entertain them with music. There has been provided for them a special type clear to aged and insensitive fingers, in which is a considerable library. This type was invented by a blind man, Dr. William Moon. His son, Dr. Robert Moon, is the secretary of the Pennsylvania Home Teaching society and from circulating library for the blind. Dr. Moon's address is 1319 Walnut street, Philadelphia, and, so far as the means of his society permit, he supplies to any aged blind person the inestimable consolation of books.—John Macy, in Everybody's.

As Savages See Us.

The secretary to the Katikoro of Uganda in his book, "Uganda's Katikoro in England," tells how the dancing of English people impressed him, and his opinion is certainly not flattering.

"On this day," he says, "I saw how the Europeans dance to the piano, a thing which they like doing very much. When they dance they jump up and down and twist around, men and women holding on to each other in pairs; for my part I preferred the music to the dancing, which I thought was a shameful thing for men and women to dance thus together. They danced in many different kinds of ways, a different way for each tune."

T. R. PALMER KILLS HIMSELF.

St. Paul Insurance Man, in Ill Health, Commits Suicide.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 4.—Timothy R. Palmer, who resigned last Friday as president of the Minnesota Mutual Life Insurance Company, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head while alone in his room at his residence, 923 Grand avenue, Thursday.

Melancholia caused by ill health is the only known motive.

Anarchist Must Be Deported.

St. Louis, Dec. 4.—Judge David P. Dyer in the federal district court Thursday sustained an order of Secretary of Commerce and Labor Strauss directing that Samuel Hochmann be deported to his old home in England, for preaching anarchistic teachings on the streets of Belleville, Ill. The ruling of the court was made in denying an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Ohio Bar Association Date.

Columbus, O., Dec. 4.—At a meeting here Thursday of the executive committee of the Ohio State Bar association, it was decided to hold the third annual meeting at Put-in-Bay the second week in July next and to have Gov. Hughes of New York and Gov.-elect Harmon of Ohio to speak.

NOVEL MINE TEST

Explosive Combinations Are Closely Observed.

TRIAL OF SAFETY AGENCIES

Interesting Experiments in Artificial Shaft at American Mining Congress in Pittsburgh—Secretary of the Interior Garfield Officiates.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 4.—The laboratory and testing station recently established in this city was dedicated Thursday afternoon in the presence of national and state officials, scientists, mining engineers, mine owners and practicing miners who are attending the sessions of the American Mining congress.

A series of tests in an artificial mine, in which conditions of real mines are reproduced as far as possible, showing the results from various explosives and from so-called safety agencies, was the most interesting feature of the ceremony.

Secretary Garfield Presides.

Secretary of the Interior James H. Garfield officiated.

There were also addresses by John Mitchell, former head of the miners' organization, and by operators and others, all commending the purposes and achievements of the testing station.

Thursday's tests were made at the artificial mine. The first test was

WANTS STATUTE REPEALED.

Senator Nelson Scores the Timber and Stone Act.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The necessity for the repeal of the timber and stone act, under which it was asserted that millions of acres of public lands had been taken up by land speculators at low figures and sold later at phenomenal advances, was emphasized at Thursday night's session of the National conservation commission by Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota.

Books for the Blind.

Divided according to age, the number of blind increases with advancing years. For the old blind, perhaps a third of all, nothing radical can be done. They must be cared for under the provisions for the maintenance of the aged. But they can be made happier by being taught simple occupations. Young persons, eager to do good, can visit them, read to them, entertain them with music. There has been provided for them a special type clear to aged and insensitive fingers, in which is a considerable library. This type was invented by a blind man, Dr. William Moon. His son, Dr. Robert Moon, is the secretary of the Pennsylvania Home Teaching society and from circulating library for the blind. Dr. Moon's address is 1319 Walnut street, Philadelphia, and, so far as the means of his society permit, he supplies to any aged blind person the inestimable consolation of books.—John Macy, in Everybody's.

As Savages See Us.

The secretary to the Katikoro of Uganda in his book, "Uganda's Katikoro in England," tells how the dancing of English people impressed him, and his opinion is certainly not flattering.

"On this day," he says, "I saw how the Europeans dance to the piano, a thing which they like doing very much. When they dance they jump up and down and twist around, men and women holding on to each other in pairs; for my part I preferred the music to the dancing, which I thought was a shameful thing for men and women to dance thus together. They danced in many different kinds of ways, a different way for each tune."

TRAINER'S $22,000,000 LOAN IS UNEXPLAINED

Attorney Kellogg Failed in Efforts to Clear Up Standard Oil Company Mystery.

New York, Dec. 4.—Why the Standard Oil Company made loans of $22,000,000 to P. S. Trainer, through its subsidiary, the Southern Pipe Line Company, is not yet explained, despite the earnest efforts of government counsel to learn the reason from John D. Archbold, whose cross-examination in the dissolution suit was continued Thursday.

For over a year Frank H. Kellogg, government inquirer, has pursued every trail to find out the purpose of these large loans, but Thursday night he appeared to be no nearer the solution of the mystery than when he first propounded the question of these borrowings.

Mr. Archbold said that he knew of no reason for the loans, which, he said, might have represented the adjustments between refining companies which Mr. Trainer supplied with oil. Mr. Trainer, who is connected with the Standard's pipe line system, had previously testified that he did not know of the loans and never received the money.

With the exception of a few questions which will be asked about certain exhibits which will be placed in evidence later, the cross-examination of Mr. Archbold was concluded when an adjournment was taken until next Monday.

HEARTACHES ON EVERY PAGE.

Pathos and Tragedy in the Leaves of the Old Album.

On every page of an old album is written heartache, downfall, disillusion, loneliness. Here is the picture of the boy whose every waking hour outside of school was partly yours. So gentle a fellow he was, so ambitious, so brilliant. You saw him last year, and hardly recognized the shabby wreck that drink had made, hardly were able to take out half an hour's conversation with him. Here is the college chum with the fine head who was to do great things in life. Consumption. The blossom blighted ere the fruit was set. This other classmate with the face of Koala—the merest hair's breadth of misadventure in a furrow of his brow, first manifested in a comical oddity. After the flesh, our friend still lives; only his mind is dead.

And here is one whose every lineament shows forth engaging frankness and the joy of life—worse than death. Embosomed, gift-fugitive with a neighbor's wife. His broken-hearted old father, his wife, his children—all of us who trusted him, how much rather would we have followed him to his grave than have this come upon him! And then the long list of those with whom our lives were intertwined, for whom we hoped, believed, expected—mere insipidities, trifles, failures, half-successes, living along somehow. And we ourselves. What we meant then to be; and what we are!—Eugene Wood.

HICKORY TREE IS A MONUMENT.

It Marks the Grave of an Admirer of President Jackson.

In the Baptist graveyard at Canton, Pa., near Salem, lies the body of an old revolutionary soldier named James Hickory. A rude, unlettered sandstone marks his grave, but a more conspicuous monument is a large hickory tree the trunk of which, three feet from the ground, measures 51½ inches in circumference.

James Hickory was an ardent admirer of Andrew Jackson, so often called "Old Hickory" from the character of being so unbending in any cause which he believed to be right. Mr. Hickory was a sprig of hickory on his breast on "trading days," and before he died directed that a hickory tree be planted on his grave. This was done, and after the tree attained proportions deemed unsuitable to adorn a grave it was dug up. Another tree sprang from the roots left in, and this in time was also dug up.

When a third tree appeared, with a persistency in a good cause worthy of emulation, relatives of the deceased directed that it be not disturbed. Hence the tree of large proportions that annually showers its nuts over the grave of the deceased admirer of "Old Hickory."

The Essence of Government.

Man, born in a family, is compelled to maintain society, from necessity, from natural inclination and from habit. The same creature, in his farther progress, is engaged to establish political society in order to administer justice, without which there can be no peace among them, nor safety, nor mutual intercourse. We are, therefore, to look upon all the vast apparatus of our government as having ultimately no other object or purpose but the distribution of justice, or, in other words, the support of the 12 Judges. Kings and parliaments, fleets and armies, officers of the court and revenue, ambassadors, ministers and privy counsellors are all subordinate to this part of administration.—Hume's Essay on "The Origin of Government."

A Nomadic Piece of Land.

Cap Cod itself is sand, and like everything of a desert nature is nomadic. Like the Arab, it is always silently stealing away, so that the appearance of the peninsula constantly changes. The prevailing winds in the winter blow from the north, the sand is blown south; in summer it is blown northward, but the winter winds being stronger, the land is gradually working south. Monomoy at the lower end used to be an island, its extremity being called Cape Malabar, a name not used now. Why, I cannot say. This island of Monomoy is rapidly growing toward Nantucket, it having advanced some five miles in the last 50 years.—Outing Magazine.

The Child the Hope of the Race.

There is nothing in the world so important as children, nothing so interesting. If you ever wish to go in for some philanthropy, if you ever wish to be of any real use in the world, do something for children. If you ever yearn to be truly wise, study children. We can dress the poor, bandage the wounded, imprison the criminal, heal the sick and bury the dead; but there is always a chance that we can save a child. If the great army of philanthropists ever exterminate sin and pestilence, ever work out a race's salvation, it will be because a little child has led them.—David Starr Jordan.

"Aftermath."

"Aftermath" is a persistently ill-used word. Early July is the time of the "mow"; that is, the first mowing of the meadow. The short grass—with a sufficiency of rain—will grow again, and later will come the "second mow" or "aftermath." The phrase "the storm and its aftermath" seems a favorite with some story writers, but it is difficult to understand how a storm can have a second mowing!

RICH GEMS ARE RECOVERED.

Necklace Worth $15,000, Stolen from Iowan, Is Found.

New York, Dec. 4.—A chance remark to Police Inspector McCafferty of this city by the young son of one of his friends that he knew of a man who had a fine necklace for sale led to the recovery Thursday by Garrett E. Lamb of Clinton, Ia., of a pearl necklace said to be worth $15,000, which had been lost since February.

McCafferty called to see the necklace and seized it. He was told by the man who had it that a Los Angeles (Cal.) pawnbroker had sent it to him for pawnshop here. After diligent inquiries by the New York police, a circular letter was obtained offering $2,000 for the return of just such a pearl necklace as the one that had been seized here.

Then followed the identification of the necklace. Mr. Lamb said he was a guest in the home of Frank G. Jones, in Memphis, Tenn., last February when burglars entered the house and got away with $25,000 worth of jewelry, of which the necklace was a part.

CHRISTIAN RUDOVITZ AS HE APPEARS TODAY IN JAIL

Chicago, Dec. 4.—The extradition case in which the Russian government is attempting to get its hands on two of its subjects, Jan Poreen and Christian Rudovitz, whom it charges with murder, is one of the most important international questions of recent years. The scene has shifted from the trial of Jan Poreen in New York to that of Christian Rudovitz, in this city. Public sympathy has been awakened by these two Russian refugees who are charged with political crimes but who, it is claimed, are not guilty of personal felonies.

Before United States Commissioner Foot the trial is now taking place here. Attorney William C. Kirby represents the Russian consul and Clarence Darrow, of Haywood-Moyer fame, is defending Rudovitz. One of the most dramatic climaxes of the trial was reached when Attorney Kirby ordered Martin Garon, a witness in the case, to "state the names of the members of the central revolutionary committee." The court room at the time was filled to its utmost capacity.

CLARENCE S. DARROW, FAMOUS LAWYER OF NATIONAL REPUTATION, WHO DEFENDED THE HAYWOOD-MOYER CASES AND WHO IS NOW DEFENDING RUDOVITZ

Among these were men and women with relatives in Russia whose fate, they believed, hung on Garon's answer, relatives who were members of the committee and the disclosure of whose identity meant for them Siberia or the executioner. The words were followed by a moment of intense silence and then through the interpreter, Miss Celia Alramovitz, a Russian girl, the juror replied:

"Lead me to the gallows and I will not betray these men, my comrades in the fight for liberty. I will not tell the names of any of them. It is against my conscience."

Cheers and the weeping of the women followed, which showed the deep interest taken by the audience in his reply.

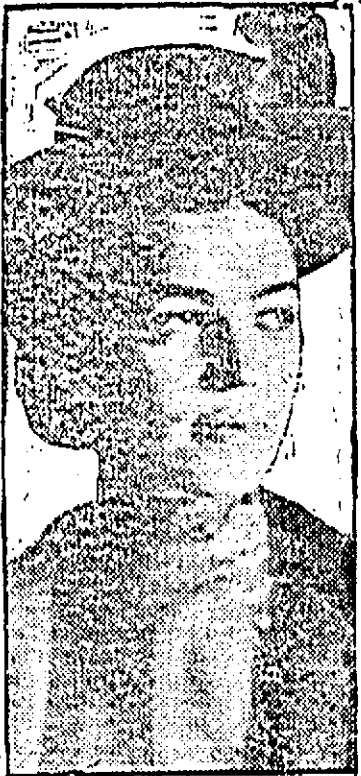

Public sentiment has further expressed itself in a gigantic mass meeting, headed by such well-known national characters as ex-Mayor Duane, Rev. Father Peter J. O'Callaghan, Miss Jane Addams, Raymond Robbins, and A. M. Simmons. At these meetings

Thin Beyond Belief.
A stalwart Irish soldier, after being in active service for some time, became greatly reduced in weight until he was so weak that he could hardly stand. Then he was invalided home. On his arrival in England, just as he stepped from the train, one of his old friends rushed up to him. "Well, well, Pat," he said, "I am glad to see you're back from the front!" "I know I'm getting thin, but I never thought you could see that much," rejoined Pat.

Argentina as a Nation.
Argentina is no longer a loosely knit confederation of pastoralists, having little or no interest in the outside world save a market for natural products. Argentina, without a doubt, is today the premier nation of Latin America, and she means to remain so. —Llueno Ayres Alarid.

And Is On to the Job.
"Why is a girl with dimples always laughing?" inquires the Montgomery Advertiser. Because she knows her business, of course.

Temperance in Early Days.
Liquor selling was prohibited in England as early as the reign of the Saxon king, Edgar, who closed hundreds of alehouses.

CELIA ALRAMOVITZ The Russian Girl Who Is the Interpreter in the Rudovitz Trial at Chicago.

ing they passed resolutions which were mailed to President Roosevelt, President-elect Taft and the congressmen and senators from Illinois which denounced the attempt on the part of Russia to extradite these men, on the ground that they were political refugees and should be protected by the American government. These resolutions were passed unanimously and cheered lustily at the close of the meeting.

Another demonstration followed Mr. Robbins' statement that "there is a very powerful influence in this country that would desire the extradition to Russia of Rudovitz. These are individual bankers who own bonds of the Russian government, floated in this free land of ours. I hope that the bankers in this country, when they clip the coupons of their Russian bonds, realize they are clipping the blood of the poor people suffering under the bloody despotism of the czar."

"If the right of asylum to refugees be denied in America, all cardinal principles of liberty in this country will be jeopardized and will have to be won over."

Rudovitz is now being held in the city jail pending the outcome of his trial. Should he be returned to Russia there is no question but that the government will either execute him or send him to Siberia. The crimes with which Rudovitz and Poreen are charged are heinous, but in its claim to defend the cause of Russian liberty and on the ground the defense is resting its claim that they should not be given back to the Russian government for trial. Should it be found, however, they are guilty of heinous murders which were not of a political nature there is no possible ground for attempting to defend the men and they will be turned over to the Russian authorities at once.

Banker Describes Sure Cure for Skin Diseases

A prominent Chicago banker recently gave a talk to some friends during the banker's convention that they said was more valuable than anything they heard at the meeting. Speaking of the liability of business men to contract skin diseases, owing to their sedentary habits and frequently disordered stomachs, he said: "Now you may think you get eczema, tetter, salt rheum, etc., from handling soiled paper money, and perhaps you do some times. However, you get it, it's generally hard to cure, and that is why I want you to know about this new treatment. It's simply a new use for a well-known drug called Ectrox. You dissolve a teaspoonful of pure powdered Ectrox in two tablespoons of water and bathe the diseased skin in the solution 20 minutes at a time twice a day. The solution must be used warm and made fresh each time. If you are careful to get the pure drug in sealed packages, just as it comes from the chemical works, and use it as I said, you can cure any case of eczema or tetter you ever saw." It stops the itching right away and dries up the eruption in a short time."

"I suppose," he said to the sporty-looking man who had entered the car and taken a seat beside him—"I suppose that you have at least a thousand dollars up on this election?"
"Not hardly," was the reply.
"Don't they want to bet your way?"
"Oh, there's plenty of men who are putting up money on the election."
"I remember that you had several thousand dollars up on the last election," persisted the other.
"Yes."
"But what's the matter with you this time? Do you think the race will be so close that you can't pick a winner?"
"The trouble with me is that I won a bet about three months ago," replied the sporty-looking man.
"Oh. Won enough to retire on, eh?"
"Six months ago I made a bet of a thousand dollars that I would marry a certain widow within three months."
"Oh, I see. Yes, I remember you were married about three months ago. You won the bet, of course?"
"I did. Yes, I won the bet."
"And the widow?"
"Yes, the widow."
"But what has that got to do with your not betting on the election? I should think that a man who won a thousand dollars and a widow—"

CHAPTER II.

Worse Than Wilderness.

A WAIL from Miss Leslie roused the Englishman out of a dream in which he had been swimming for life across a sea of boiling oil. He sat up and gazed about him, half-dazed. The cyclone had been followed by a dead calm, and the sun, already well above the horizon, was blazing upon them over the glassy surfaces of the dying swells with fierce heat.

Winthrop told about his hat. It had been blown off when, at the striking of the steamer, he had rushed up on deck. As he remembered, he straightened, and looked at his companions. Blake lay snoring where he had first outstretched himself, sleeping the sleep of the just—and of the drunkard. The girl, however, was already awake. She sat with her hands clasped in her lap, while the tears rolled slowly down her cheeks.

"My—ah—dear Miss Gonovlevo, what is the matter?" exclaimed Winthrop.

"Matter? Do you ask, when we are here on this wretched coast, and may not get away for weeks? Oh, I did so count on the London season this year! Lady Bayrose promised that I should be among those presented."

"Well, I—ah—fancy, Lady Bayrose will do no more presenting—unless it may be to the heavenly choir, you know."

"Why, what do you mean, Mr. Winthrop? You told me that she and the maid had been put in the largest boat—"

"My dear Miss Gonovlevo, you must remember that I am a diplomat. It was all quite sufficiently harrowing, I assure you. They were, indeed, put into the largest boat—lastly mud-died!—While they waited for the mate to fetch you, the boat was crushed alongside, and all in it drowned."

"Drowned!—drowned! Oh, dear Lady Bayrose! And she'd traveled so much—oh, oh, it is horrible! Why did she persuade me to visit the Cape? It was only to be with her—And then for us to start off for India, when we might have sailed straight to England! Oh, it is horrible! horrible! And my maid, and all—it cannot be possible!"

"Pray, do not excite yourself, my dear Miss Gonovlevo. Their troubles are all over. Mr. Gaud has taken them to him, you know."

"But the pity of it! To be drowned—so far from home!"

"Ah, if that's all you're worrying about—I must say I'd like to know how we'll get a snack for breakfast. I'm hungry as a—er—groom."

"Eating! How can you think of eating, Mr. Winthrop, and all the others drowned? This sun is becoming dreadfully hot. It is unbearable! Can you not put up some kind of an awning?"

"Well, now, I must say, I was never much of a hand at such things, and really I can't imagine what one could rig up. There might have been a bit of sail in the boat, but one can't see a sign of it. I fancy it was smashed."

Miss Leslie ventured a glance at Blake. Though still lying as he had sprawled in his drunkenness, there was a comforting suggestion of power in his broad shoulders and square jaw.

"Is he still in that condition?"

"Must have slept it off by this time, and there's no more in the flask," answered Winthrop. Reaching over with his foot, he pushed against Blake's back.

"Huh! All right," grunted the sleeper, and sat up, as had Winthrop, half-dazed. Then he stared around him, and rose to his feet. "Well, what in hell! Say, this is damn cheerful!"

"I fancy we are in a nasty fix. But I say, my man, there is a woman present, and your language, you know—"

Blake turned and fixed the Englishman with a cold stare.

"Look here, you bloomin' lud," he said, "there's just one thing you're going to understand, right here and now. I'm not your man, and we're not going to have any of that kind of blather. Any fool can see we're in a tight hole, and we're like to keep company for a while—probably long as we last."

"What—ah—may I ask, do you mean by that?"

Blake laughed harshly, and pointed from the roof-stown sea to the vast stretches of desolate marsh. Far inland, across miles of brackish lagoons and reedy mud-flats, could be seen groups of scrubby, half-fallen trees; ten or twelve miles to the southward a rocky headland jutted out into the water; otherwise there was nothing in sight but sea and swamp. If it could not properly be termed a sea-view, it was at least a very wet landscape.

"Fine prospect," remarked Blake, dryly. "We'll be in luck if the fever don't get the last of us inside a month; and as for you two, you'd have as much show of lasting a month as a toad with a rattlesnake. If it wasn't for Tom Blake—that's my name—Tom Blake—and as long as this stinky lather, you're welcome to call me Tom or Blake, whichever suits. But understand, we're not going to have any more of your bloody, bloomin' blather."

you had the drop on me, and could pile on dog till the cows came home. Here I'm Blake and you're Winthrop."

"Hello me, Mr. Blake, I quite appreciate the—ah—situation. And now, I fancy that, instead of wasting time—"

"It's about time you introduced me to the lady," interrupted Blake, and he stared at them half-deliriously, yet with a twinkle in his eyes.

Miss Leslie flushed. Winthrop swore softly, and bit his lip. Aboard ship, backed by Lady Bayrose and the captain, he had goaded the American at pleasure. Now, however, the situation was reversed. Both title and authority had been swept away by the storm, and he was left to shift for himself against the man who had every reason to hate him for his overbearing insolence. Worse still, both he and Miss Leslie were now dependent upon the American, in all probability for life itself. It was a bitter pill and hard to swallow.

Blake was not slow to observe the Englishman's hesitancy. He grinned. "Every dog has his day, and I guess this is mine," he said. "Take your time, if it comes hard. I can imagine it's a pretty stiff dose for your ladyship. But why in—why in frozen hades an American lady should object to an introduction to a countryman who's going to do his level best to save her pretty little self from the hyenas—well, it beats me."

Winthrop flushed redder than the girl.

"Miss Leslie, Mr. Blake," he murmured, hoping to put an end to the situation.

But yet Blake persisted. He bowed, openly exultant.

"You see, miss," he said, "I know the correct thing quite as much as your swells. I know all along you were Jenny Leslie. I ran a survey for your dear papa when he was manipulating the Q. T. railroad, and he did me out of my pay."

"Oh, but Mr. Blake, I am sure it must be a mistake; I am sure that if it is explained to papa—"

"Yes, we'll cable papa to-night. Meantime, we've something else to do. Suppose you two get a hustle on yourselves, and scrape up something to eat. I'm going out to see what's left of that blamed old tub."

"Surely you'll not venture to swim out so far!" protested Winthrop. "I saw the steamer sink as we cast off."

"Looks like a mast sticking up out there. Maybe some of the rigging is loose."

"But the sharks! These waters swarm with the vile creatures. You must not risk your life!"

"Cause why? If I do, the babes in the woods will be left without even the robins to cover them, poor things! But cheer up!—maybe the mud-buns will do it with lovely water-lilies."

"Please, Mr. Blake, do not be so cruel!" sobbed Miss Leslie, her tears starting afresh. "The sun makes my head ache dreadfully, and I have no hat or shade, and I'm becoming so thirsty!"

"And you think you've only to wait, and half a dozen stewards will come running with parasols and ice water. Neither you nor Winthrop seem to 've got your eyes open. Just suppose you get busy and do something. Winthrop, chase yourself over the mud, and get together a moss of fish that are not too dead. Must be dozens, after the blow. As for you, Miss Jenny, I guess you can pick up some rods and rig a headgear out of this handkerchief. Wait a moment. Put on my coat, if you don't want to be broiled alive through the holes of that peacock-bonnet."

"But I say, Blake—" began Winthrop.

"Don't say—do!" rejoined Blake; and he started down the muddy shore. Though the tide was at flood, there was now no cyclone to drive the sea above the beach, and Blake walked a quarter of a mile before he reached the water's edge. There was little surf, and he paused only a few moments to peer out across the low swells before he commenced to strip.

Winthrop and Miss Leslie had been watching his movements; now the girl rose in a little flurry of haste, and set to gathering rods. Winthrop would have spoken; but, seeing her embarrassment, smiled to himself, and began strolling about in search of fish.

It was no difficult search. The marshy ground was strewn with dead sea-creatures, many of which were already shriveling and drying in the sun. Some of the fish had a familiar look, and Winthrop turned them over with the tip of his shoe. He even went so far as to stoop to pick up a large mullet; but shrunk back, repulsed by its stiffness and the unnatural shape into which the sun was warping it.

He found himself near the beach, and stood for half an hour or more watching the black dot far out in the water—all that was to be seen of Blake. The American, after wading off-shore another quarter of a mile, had reached swimming depth, and was heading out among the reefs with steady, vigorous strokes. Half a mile or so beyond him Winthrop could now make out the goal for which he was aiming—the one remaining top-mast of the steamer.

"By Jove, these waters are full of sharks!" murmured Winthrop, staring at the steadily receding dot until it disappeared behind the wall of surf which spumed up over one of the outer reefs.

A call from Miss Leslie interrupted his watch, and he hastened to rejoin her. After several failures, she had contrived to knot Blake's handkerchief to three or four rods in the form of a little sunshade. Her shoulders were protected by Blake's coat. It made a heavy wrap, but it shut out the blistering sun rays, which, as Blake had foreseen, had quickly begun to burn the girl's delicate skin through her open-work bodice.

Thus protected, she was fairly safe from the sun. But the sun was by no means the worst feature of the situation. While Winthrop was yet several yards distant, the girl began to complain to him. "I'm so thirsty, Mr. Winthrop! Where is there any water? Please get me a drink at once, Mr. Winthrop!"

"But, my dear Miss Leslie, there is no water. These pools are all sea-water. I must say, I'm duced dry myself. I can't see why that cad should go off and leave us like this, when we need him most."

"Indeed, it is a shame—Oh, I'm so thirsty! Do you think it would help if we ate something?"

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION.

"Just the thing," said I, "for my little daughter, and I immediately went for a bottle of Vinol. It helped her wonderfully. She has gained rapidly in flesh and strength, and she does not take cold half so easily."

"I am extremely grateful for the good it has done her, and I hope other mothers who have weak, delicate or ailing children will be benefited by my experience and just give Vinol a trial."
